

This blend of skip-planed hardwoods is milled out of woods salvaged from Midwestern agricultural buildings. The flooring mimics classic midwestern barn construction - it uses the proverbial 'trees closest to the jobsite'. In our case, that means we re-saw a mix of reclaimed beech, maple, elm, hickory, poplar, sassafras, buckeye, and other species. Our Reclaimed Midwestern Mixed Hardwood flooring is perfect for a rustic or cabin application, as well as for contemporary design scenarios where variety is desired.

Standard Dimensions

2.5" - 8.5" widths (wider by special order)
2' to 12' lengths
3/4" thick,
Tongue-and-groove and end-matched.

Grain

Mostly closed grains with a wide variation in density, figure and straightness.
Mixed flat and vertical grain.

Color

The dark tones of the skip-planed surface blend with various lighter earthy colors of heartwood; blonder maples and beeches, browner black ash and American Elm, greenish tints of poplar.

Character

This reclaimed flooring has lots of character, including moderate knot content and nail holes with typical framing spacing. Skip-planed to preserve surface tone and faint saw kerf marks.

Hardness & Stability

Ranges from relatively soft to very hard.

Certifications

Qualifies for LEED MRc3, Materials Reuse credit. May qualify for LEED MRc5, Regional Materials credit.
